The acclaim of President Roosevelt's address to the rulers of the nations of the globe to disarm and to agree to refrain from invading the territory of other nations, is world wide. That it is a noble effort and deserves a noble fate, goes without saying. Even Chancellor Hitler, who has earned for himself the title of fire-brand of Europe, approves of the message. German leaders are said to have expressed joy that the United States was going to take a wider interest in international affairs. Everybody abroad seems to want to get Uncle Sam into Europe. The unanimity of opinion on the subject is so pronounced that it leads to the opinion that there is something behind it which has not yet been made public. Europe is seldom agreed on any one proposition unless it is one which will benefit Europe even at the expense of some other part of the world.

Although the world-wide praise which has greeted the President's appeal is gratifying to us, as a matter o fnational pride, it is too early to do any real celebrating as to what is going to be accomplished. The path is a long and arduous one. We seem to remember of times in the not distant past when European diplomats have made haste to praise pronouncements by American Presidents and then nothing came of it. Gladly hailing a plan in principle, and then disagreeing on the working out of the details until the plan is destroyed, seems to be one of the favorite pastimes of European politicians. This is not to say that the people of the countries of Europe do not want peace and disarmament. They want all of that, but each nation wants to write the terms of peace and to have "for safety" an extra cannon or two over what the other fellow possesses. This is only human nature. It is all right for Americans to criticize, but if Uncle Sam did not have 3,000 miles of ocean to the east and the west of him, if he had Japan as a next door neighbor on one side, England, France, Germany and Italy as close neighbors on the other, it is very doubtful whether he would scorn the idea of having an extra bayonet up his sleeve for a rainy day.

That Europe is overcrowded, and filled with nations nursing hostile traditions of more than a thousand years standing, is not our fault. It is perhaps our duty to give good advice, and to encourage peace and disarmament wherever and whenever possible, to do our share in any reducing of armaments which may be agreed on. It is doubtful, however, and certainly the American people would disapprove, whether it is our duty to go so far in the supposed interests of peace, as to enter any agreement which would commit us to join an international combine to put down trouble and rioting whenever this occurred in Europe.

For example: ever since the World War, France has been seeking to get the United States to join in a "security pact" which means ultimately a pact to guarantee the present boundaries in Europe. As we did not help establish these boundaries it is difficult to realize where we have any great are told, France will be satisfied obligation in the matter. Now, we if we agree to a simple, little "consultative" pact. Maybe so, and then again perhaps the pact, after it so simple as had been expected. was signed, wouldn't turn out to be Certainly France will not be satisfied with anything which does not give her assurance that we would rush to her aid in case of trouble. A pact without such moral assurance would be useless to her, and would not change the present situation in the least.

Let us have both peace and disarmament, if possible. But in order to try to get them let us hope Uncle Sam will not agree to any punative engagements in advance. The risk and the danger would be greater than any possible reward.

Mrs. D. H. Cramer Re-elected Pres. Of Pundita Circle

The annual meeting of the Pundita circle was held at the home of Mrs. E. F. Pope last Wednesday afternoon, with Mrs. E. O. LaMontagne and Mrs. L. B. Davidson as co-hostesses.

At the election of officers Mrs. D. H. Cramer was re-elected president and Mrs. W. H. Stray was re-elected vice president of the club. Mrs. Wilbur Mitchell was elected secretary; Mrs. E. F. Pope, treasurer, and Mrs. Stanley Smith, parliamentarian.

During the business meeting plans were made for the annual picnic. This year the picnic will be held in the lovely garden of the E. O. LaMontagne home on Union avenue at noon, Wednesday, June 7. In charge of arrangements for this affair are Mrs. L. B. Davidson, Mrs. G. W. Burrow, and Mrs. E. F. Pope.

A very interesting and beautiful display of fine needle work of the members of the circle, including patch work quilts and linen, was shown. A large collection of birds, the property of Jerome Pope, interested the circle.

Tea was served by the hostesses at the close of a delightful afternoon.

Annexation Will Be Brought Up Tuesday Night

A regular meeting of the Campbell chamber of commerce will be held next Tuesday night at the Community hall with President H. M. Shadle presiding.

The most important matter for discussion will be the changing of a certain territory in supervisorial district No. 5 to district No. 4. A committee appointed at the last meeting of the organization has been working on the project. The first step in attaining this change of district is the circulation of a petition. The petition is then presented to the board of supervisors for approval. Work on this move is being pushed forward as rapidly as possible.

Other topics of general interest to all citizens of this community will be discussed, and it is hoped that a good attendance will be on hand for the meeting.

"Outdoor Girl" Wanted by Salinas Rodeo Committee

A Campbell girl may win the title of the "Finest Outdoor Girl of California" and a trip, with all expenses paid for herself and her mother or chaperon, to New York and return, either going or returning via one of the Grace Steamship Lines Santa boats, visiting many Central American countries, going through the Panama canal and returning by rail with a stopover at the world's fair at Chicago.

Each city is requested to send their finest "outdoor girl" to Salinas to the California Rodeo and Horse fair which opens July 20 with the selection of the girl who will make this trip and be known as the "sweetheart" of the rodeo for the following three days.

The girls are selected for their personality, healthful, outdoor appearance, accomplishments and horsemanship, each counting 25 per cent. Further information can be secured from H. M. Shadle, president of the local chamber of commerce. Any girl who would like to represent Campbell should get in touch with Mr. Shadle at once.

Miss Katharine A. Wood presented her piano pupils in a recital Saturday afternoon in the kindergarten room at the grammar school. A number of friends and relatives gathered to enjoy the musical afternoon.

The first number on the program were piano duets, "Little May Queen" and "Flower Parade March" by Bilbro, played by Roberta Field and Carl Field, Jr.; "Sonata" by Krause was played by Virginia Worden; "Gondola" by Krentzlin and "The Merry Mandarin" by Poldini, Elaine Jeffers; "Eileen-Waltz Caprice" by Keats, Merrill Fisher; "Courtly Dance" by Martin, Jeannette Collins; piano duet, "Comrades Waltz" by Rolfe, Jewel and Jeannette Abbott; "Minuet" by Paderewski, Betty Thaysen;; "Music Box" by Poldini, Jewel Abbott; "Elfin Dance" by Grieg, Jeannette Abbott; "Minuet from Sonata" Op. 49, No. 2, by Beethoven, Betty York; "Donny Brook Fair" by Scott, Robert Pomeroy, and "Gigue" by Graun, Dennis Bennett.

Following the recital a social hour and refreshments were enjoyed.

Bicycle Parade Planned for Fiesta De las Rosas

An interesting feature of the annual Fiesta de las Rosas this year is the bicycle parade that will roll through downtown San Jose Saturday afternoon. The committee reports that the schools of the county and city are expected to enter at least 1,500 bicycles. Old time cyclists are bringing out their aged mounts to add historical flavor. Several bands and organized units will add music and color.

The parade—expected to include some 2,000 bicycles, decorated with crepe paper and flowers—will be held at the time usually given to the grand floral parade, which has been abandoned this year for reasons of economy. The unique spectacle will attract many thousands of spectators.

The schools of Campbell have received special invitations from the Fiesta de las Rosas association to join the parade and share in the fun—and the publicity—it will create. Everyone is invited to ride a bicycle decorated to the best of his or her ability. Many prizes, including two new bicycles, will be given for the best decorations. There will be no charge for entry.

Local Stamp Club Meets Friday Night

A meeting of the club will be held Friday night at the Congregational church, where new members will be cordially welcomed.

Need for Health Seen by County School Officials

In Santa Clara county the school is the perpetual guardian of good health.

Frequently cited as a model by educators of Stanford University, the University of California and other institutions, the county's school health program pays daily dividends in the sound bodies of thousands of healthy youngsters.

"Health is winning increasing and clearer recognition as the fundamental objective in the entire program of public education," declares William P. Cramsie, chairman of the county board of education. "Health education and health protection for children is recognized as a definite and appropriate function of the public school.

"It is a primary function of the school to discover the health assets and health liabilities of the child, conduct health inspection for the prevention and control of communicable disease, provide a hygienic child against accident, and keep a child against accident, and keep a record of the child's growth and development as a part of his educational record.

"Few realize how adequately this function is met by the public schools of Santa Clara county, making up for the cost many fold in reduction of absences due to illness, in detecting and correcting physical defects in children, and in the prevention of epidemics of communicable diseases, and, most important, in securing for each child the highest realization of the bodily equipment with which he is endowed."

Larger school districts of the county direct their own health programs, Cramsie explained. Smaller districts maintain programs of the same high standards by an arrangement through the office of Joseph E. Hancock, county superintendent of schools, through which they share the costs. Four nurses are thus maintained for work among the children and the homes of families in rural school districts. Services of a dental hygienist and two dentists are provided on the same basis.

School authorities work in close cooperation with the county health department, and this year school nurses have served as representatives of the county charities department. Adequate relief with a minimum of delay is thus made possible for families in distress.

Not even the necessity for the most rigid economy in school expenditures, Cramsie states, should be permitted to curtail the effectiveness of the school health program.

THE FARMERS CORNER

By Ralph H. Taylor

Heading up a long list of agricultural measures, many of which were born of the storm and strife of world-wide depression, the agricultural prorate commission bill promises to go down in the record book as the leading farm enactment of the 1933 legislature.

Designed to aid farmers in guarding against glutted markets and ruinous prices, the bill permits producers in the various branches of the farming industry, when necessity demands, to control movement of their products to market by proration agreement.

As a further safeguard, to prevent selfish manipulation of the plan by minority groups or individuals, it is provided that proration programs can be set in motion only by vote or petition of two-thirds or more of the producers of a commodity in any district and representing at least two-thirds of the production factors, such as acres or trees.

This proviso would prohibit a few large producers from dictating, arbitrarily, to hundreds of small producers. On the other hand, it would also prevent a clique of small operators from riding roughshod over the wishes of the acreage or production majority.

The prorate bill, quite candidly, is an experiment, but it is an experiment thoroughly justified by present chaotic conditions. Until market supply is regulated to market demand there can be no profit in farming and the present state of fover-production leaves no other course open but a system of limitation.

The California act—A.B. 1122—introduced by Assemblyman Meeker of Kerman, is in line with recent action of the federal government unde rthe new farm relief act. The national government merely approaches the problem from another angle by puttnig a limitation on production.

Whether the proration experiment in California is a success or a failure will depend, to very large extent, on the character of administration of the act. And agriculture if it is sufficiently interested, can insist upon the proper administration of the program.

The bill calls for a prorate commission of nine members. Four of the members would be farmers; three would represent consumers and would be neither producers nor handlers; another would be a commercial handler of farm products and the ninth would be an experienced cooperative marketing handler. It is to be hoped that the commission will be composed of men sincerely interested in helping the farming industry.

While some question has been raised by opponents as to the constitutionality of the plan this can properly be left to court determination. Agriculture, at least, is entitled to have a chance at market stabilization if it is a possibility and there are increasing indications that the courts are leaning more toward the necessities than technicalities during the present emergency.

Still another measure of first importance enacted during the recent session, but still awaiting signature by Governor Rolph, is the bill placing an eight-cent tax on oleomargarine, except when made from oils that are essentially domestic.

With oleomargarine oils coming in duty-free from countries capable of cheap production because of low wage scales and low living standards, California dairymen seem rightly entitled to a fair measure of protection. From the consumer's standpoint, too, the bill has distinct advantages, inasmuch as nut margarines do not contain the food values of butter.

And if added justification for the bill is needed it may be found in the fact that dairying, perhaps more than any other industry, is essential to a permanently successful agriculture. If cheap foreign substitutes are to be allowed to undermine California's dairying industry, the whole farm structure will be weakened at a time when it vitally needs strengthening.

C. Y. PITMAN

COUNTY ASSESSOR

Office Located In the Hall of Justice

One of the acute problems which engage the attention of those who would make Santa Clara county an ideal municipality is the subject of real estate valuation. Equitable taxation is the corner stone of just county government. It cannot be reached through mathematics alone. What was considered just and proper a few generations ago takes on quite a different view today. And so the public conscience, one might say, is constantly progressing. It is not necessary to go back to Roman history to prove that the best governed commonwealths of the world had the same problems. Santa Clara county is enough for the present. While on the subject it is well to single out those who have been doing good work on the practical side of the problem. Men like C. Y. Pitman have been giving a good account of themselves in this respect. He is a real estate assessor who conducts his work efficiently because his methods are scientific and based on good common sense as well. His judgment is so expert, fair and unbiased that his decision brooks no difference of opinion. It is public officials like this that make the county machinery run smoothly. He is indeed a valuable citizen, always hard-working and indefatigable in his efforts to improve the community in which he lives and loves so well. Moreover, that community, in return, offers him a profound respect and esteem, which he so well merits.

This office is open at all times for detailed information regarding your problems.

E. W. CONANT

COUNTY TREASURER

Office Located In the Hall of Records

Guarding the county's cash box is one thing but to know how much is in that box is something else again. The Treasurer is the watch-dog of the cash. He has the inspection and revision of the accounts of all departments and trusts and audits these accounts and annually reports the receipts and expenditures. He sees that appropriations are not overdrawn. He is empowered to demand evidence that all amounts claimed are justly due and it is he who shows the borrowing capacity. Thus being Treasurer is a mighty responsible position and the county is very fortunate in having him in this office whose flare for figures borders on being miraculous.

Dealing in millions of dollars is only part of the days work to him, however, just routine matter. But let us not permit that statement to roll off too easily. His genius has not been acquired overnight but has taken years of studious effort. Moreover he must know the laws affecting the issuance of bonds in ratio to local property assessments. His knowledge of every phase of finance as affecting the office of Treasurer is almost encyclopedic and with an accuracy that is phenomenal.

Henry Ford

Dearborn, Mich.

May 22, 1933

I suppose that I may claim to be the first Ford Dealer. I not only made cars, but sold them and frequently delivered them myself.

The "drive away" is not new; often I have driven cars from Detroit to towns in Ohio or Indiana or Michigan to make delivery.

There were no good roads in those days, and the people where I drove had never seen a motor car before.

My first really enthusiastic customers were Country Doctors. They were the first to realize the value of dependable transportation to a widely scattered practice.

Even today I occasionally hear from some of those first Ford users.

We had to teach local mechanics how to care for the cars. That is how Ford Service began, which is now found everywhere in the world.

We believed from the beginning that a sale does not complete our transaction with our customer -- it creates upon us an obligation to see that our customer's car gives him service. Ford Dealers know their duty to the public in this respect.

I can say of Ford Dealers generally that they have been and are men of character and standing in their communities. Most of them have been with us many years, which indicates that we agree on basic business principles. The Company provides that the methods used to sell the Ford car are consistent with the self-respect of the Dealers who handle it.

The present Ford V-8 is the peak of our 30 years experience.

We have never made a better car. Its eight-cylinder engine is powerful and smooth running. The car is admittedly very good looking and has comfortable riding qualities. It is economical in operation because of advanced engine design and low car weight. It is the fastest, roomiest and most powerful car we have ever built.

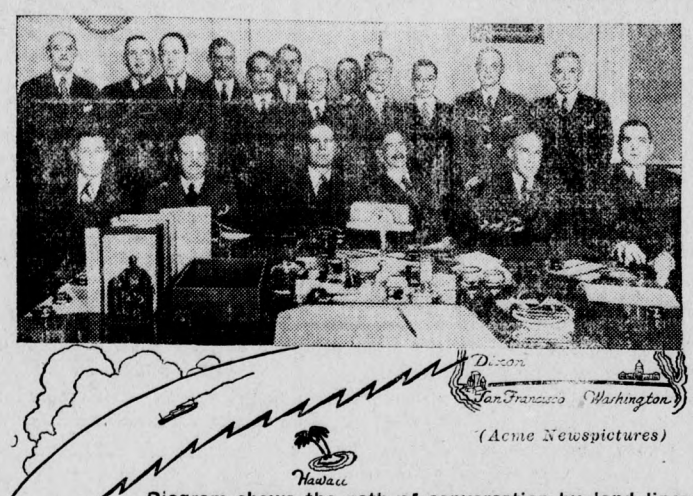
Notables Take Part in Opening of Telephone Service With Philippines



(Acme Newspictures)

Diagram shows the path of conversation by land lines and radio telephone channel between Washington and Manila on the occasion of the formal opening of telephone service between the United States and the Philippine Islands last March.

Scene in Washington at the opening of telephone service with the Philippines. Seated, l. to r.: Judge E. D. Sykes, chairman, Federal Radio Commission; Assistant Sec'y of the Navy Henry L. Roosevelt; Secretary of War George H. Dern; Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson; Maj. Gen. Irving J. Carr, Chief Signal Officer, U. S. A.; T. G. Miller, vice president, American Telephone and Telegraph Company. Standing are officials of the United States and Philippine governments and of the telephone company.

Words of greeting spoken by Government officials into a telephone in Washington, D. C., at 6:30 P. M. one Thursday last March were heard in the Philippine Islands at 7:30 the following morning. The voice impulses covered the 10,000 miles between the Nation's capital and Manila in less than one second, the apparent interval being due to a 13 hour difference in time between Washington and the islands, and to the International Date Line, which lies in the Pacific Ocean.

This interchange of greetings among official personages in Washington and in Manila marked the opening of commercial radio telephone service between the United States and its most distant dependency. A short wave radio telephone channel now links the Bell System transmitting and receiving stations near San Francisco with those of the Radio Corporation of America near Manila, the latter connecting with the wire lines of the Philippine Long Distance Telephone Company.

The opening of telephone service with the Philippines is the second step in the expansion of Bell System service across the Pacific. Connection with the Hawaiian Islands, through the Pacific Coast radio telephone transmitting and receiving stations, was made late in 1931. Tests are already in progress looking toward the eventual establishment of telephone service with Japan and other Far Eastern countries.

Telephone service with Manila is available to all Bell and Bell-connecting telephones in the United States, Canada, Cuba, and Mexico.

THOMAS BODLEY
COUNTY TAX COLLECTOR
Office Located In the Court House

Perhaps never before in the history of the county have the people given so much thought to the calibre of the man who would hold public office as well as their proved personal attributes and capabilities that would indicate how well they would hold their respective offices after being selected. This is true of the people of Santa Clara county as it is of the rest of the nation. Thomas Bodley's constructive administration of his own private affairs and business, has gained him hearty regard and the respect of his colleagues, because his career as a citizen has been helpful and conducted in a sound and business-like manner. He has been indefatigable in his efforts to give the interests of his fellow citizens the best that is in him, and his policies have been so manifestly honest and above board, that he has won the plaudits of all, regardless of partisanship. It is such men who merit well with favor at election time, for the day has passed when men are selected for office as a personal favor. Candidates today must prove their mettle and ability to gain such favor and Thomas Bodley has done this without a doubt.

A. B. LANGFORD
COUNTY AUDITOR
Office Located In the Hall of Records

The office of this position is not all a patch of roses. It has its hills and sharp corners and few men would languish under its responsibilities.

But he, who capably holds this office is a man who loves responsibilities, arduous duties that must be performed, exigencies that must be met. It is all part of his job and sportingly and civic spiritedly he works harder to acquit himself in an efficient and admirable manner, than were it his own fortune.

Such men are true builders of a community and are to be duly appreciated. However, unfortunately, they seldom are appreciated. For example, he could be devoting himself to some other occupation that would bring him much greater emolument in dollars and cents. But to a man of his type, dollars are not to be compared with the privilege of doing a public service that is constructive, and doing it somewhat better than it has ever been done before.

That is because he is of a studious nature and takes his work seriously, and the further fact that he is so conscientiously honest, demonstrates easily why he is one of our most popular public officials.

F. L. THOMAS
DISTRICT ATTORNEY
Office Located In the Court House

F. L. Thomas, who so ably holds the office of Prosecuting Attorney for Santa Clara county, must cope with all the best legal ability and sometimes be pitted against a battery of these legal lights. There are some prosecuting attorneys who adopt the policy of convicting in all cases, regardless of extenuating circumstances, their desire for personal aggrandizement and political ambitions being too great to temper their views with the demands of real justice. Mr. Thomas has the viewpoint that his office is a public trust and not a machine to lift him to dizzy heights in the political arena, using unfortunate souls who have erred against society, as mere puppets to serve as stepping stones for his personal advancement. Not Mr. Thomas. If the crime is the first offense or committed under circumstances that seem to condone it, due consideration is given by Mr. Thomas. It is such fairness and humaneness that makes him so beloved and feared at the same time; for the hardened offender suffers from his unmitigated prosecution, which is both thorough and effective. After all, such men reserve political preferment all the more, though they do not ask it.

Prosecuting Attorney Thomas is a man who indeed well merits a place higher up in the realm of public service.

CHARLES A. PAYNE
COUNTY RECORDER
Office Located In the Hall of Records

Santa Clara county is famed for the sons and daughters who have served her well, regardless of personal loss or gain. He who holds this important office is one of the most representative officials who are present among us to receive a little of the praise that is due him.

Out of the large circle who are privileged to call him friend, there are but few who know how big his actual accomplishments and achievements are. Every step of his career to preeminence as a gifted and talented public official has come by his own, hard earned efforts and not as the result of any pull. After attaining to an office he straightway set about to make the most of that office. Not in the sense of personal gain or aggrandizement, but he made the most of it for the interests of the people.

That he has succeeded in his goal is well exemplified in the success that has attended his efforts and the high esteem and confidence of the people he has acquired. The position he holds in the eyes of the taxpayers did not come by accident. It is the direct result of his having done so well by those people.

Santa Clara county can never have too many men of his type in office, and it is hoped to see this capable public official go on to bigger and better public service which he so well deserves.

R. B. CHANDLER
COUNTY SURVEYOR
Office Located In the Hall of Records

To attempt to catalog the various important projects of a municipal nature, calling into service the technical skill of an expert surveyor, would require columns. Suffice it to say that no man ever acquitted himself of the arduous duties connected with the office of Santa Clara County Surveyor in a more admirable and efficient manner than may be truthfully said of R. B. Chandler of Santa Clara county. There is a man with a veritable wealth of experience and practical training, plus an academic background that took years of studious effort to acquire.

He has been an indefatigable worker and never calls the day ended until the problem at hand has been finished or put into tangible shape for the next day's work. He was a brilliant scholar at college and since receiving his degree, has held various important posts, but none that ever gave him more scope for the exercise of his natural abilities than since he has acted as Santa Clara County Surveyer, where his work stands as a splendid tribute to his genius and ability. Conscientious to the last degree.
